Successful Mobilities

VET trainers and providers need to acquire new skills for the implementation of successful mobilities.

These skills entail the

- development and enhancement of the intercultural competencies of VET practitioners,
- knowledge of the various intercultural programmes available, project management skills, and
- knowledge and usage of methodologies and tools to recognise, assess and validate experiences.

IM addresses these needs through a comprehensive learning program for VET providers and practitioners.

Intercultural Competence Modular Program for VET Providers and VET Organisations

The “Intellectual Output 2— Intercultural Competence Modular Program for VET Providers and VET Organisations” is produced to explore the Vocational Education and Training (VET) dimension and intercultural mobility area of the occupational figure of the Intercultural VET Practitioner in the European Union.

The modular IM Program consists of 3 modules which offer knowledge through a set of engaging activities which better prepare the VET practitioners to plan and implement successful mobilities and assess the outcomes and impact of the mobility on the learners’ professional, academic and personal life.

The IM Learning Program is a blended learning solution with face to face sessions as well as online activities through the IM e-Learning platform.

The training materials consist of 3 modules

M1. Developing intercultural competence through cultural awareness and effective intercultural communication.

This first module aims to develop and enhance the intercultural competencies of VET practitioners engaged in intercultural mobility programmes and experiences. By reflecting on and developing their own intercultural competencies, organisations and practitioners will be able to work more effectively with learners and participants in intercultural VET contexts.

M2. Develop and manage VET intercultural mobility programmes

This module aims to support intercultural VET practitioners and organisations to understand the different types of intercultural VET programmes and experiences, how to plan for them effectively, meet the diverse needs of participants and create and sustain effective international VET partnerships.

M3. Utilise appropriate strategies and tools to recognise and validate participants’ learning through intercultural VET mobility experience .

This module aims to support VET providers and practitioners to add value to intercultural VET experiences through familiarity with, and the use of, a range of appropriate tools and methodologies that can recognise, assess and validate the experiences, learning and achievements of young people taking part in intercultural VET mobilities.

The training materials consist of

- Nine PowerPoint Presentations on 3 Modules with 3 sub-units
- Additional Reading References and Files
- Handouts for the Activities
- Online activities accessible via the intercultural mobility e-learning platform

From the Partners' 3rd transnational meeting in Rome, Italy. The main area of discussion revolved around the content of the modules, in order to shape a comprehensive set of trainers' materials to help them better prepare mobility candidates. Our partners from EAL, UK demonstrated a set of activities from the 3 Modules.
